I have used Slaven's California Fruit Salt, and found it a most valuable medicine. I can confidently recommend it as a specific for all discases of the stomach, liver and kidneys. I have found it particularly useful when suffering from sick headache, caused by long fasting, fatigue and overwork. Trouble in the Guiteau Family. NEW YORK, May 9.

A lawyer said to a reporter last night: Mr. Scoville came to me yesterday in great distress of mind and stated that the idea of helping her brother had taken possession of his wife like an insane delusion, and it was only necessary for some one to say, "Come with me; I will save rather than an Irish accent. Another your brother," and she would leave everything to tollow him. Some one is taking advantage of her in this state of mind for his own purposes. Guiteau does not wish the idea to prevail that there is insanity in his family.

John Guiteau being interviewed said: "You can rest assured if Mr. Scoville crowds me to the wall I shall show him up in his proper light. I do not know where Mrs. Scoville is, but I do know that she is a terribly wronged woman, and he a confounded fraud without any palliating circum-stance of a redeeming trait whatever. Not all the trouble of the assassination has so completely demoralized me as sounding this man last week about his wife. He thinks I am keeping her from him, when I sent her money here to talk over the family difficulties with me. I still advised her to go back to her husband, and had almost persuaded her to do so, when she came on here. PORTLAND, Maine, May 9, The Press to-morrow will print the opinion of British Consul Ward on the Irish horror. He does not believe the crime should be laid to the Land League, but that it is more than probable the murderers were men who owed a grudge to the Government for some real or fancied injury, and who laid the source of their treuble to Burke. He thinks it is not improbable that the assassination was an understanding between both parties all over England and Ireland.

THE WATER WAR. The Asylum Supply Leads to Compl

Governor Kinkead and Dr. Dawson pent the forenoon in looking over the water problem as presented by J. P. Winfrey who sold the State the water The Board seems to have delegated its owers to State Treasurer Crockett, so far as supplying the State grounds with the needful, and the Governor was almost an entire stranger to the question. The State bought a sixth nterest in the Sullivan ditch, and the ed says that the water shall be taken out 400 teet from Winfrey's line fence. The ground there is very favorable and a hundred dollars would take it across the track and into the grounds. In-stead of taking it out where the deed specified it was taken out away up at the meat shipping works, and a long and expensive ditch and flume built to the grounds. This flume is a curiosity, and taxpayers should go down and look at it to see how very carefully their business is managed. The flume could be built of new lumber, in good shape, and set up on trestle work for $200. It is all blown to pieces now, and lies scattered about, but enough can be seen to give a good idea of the workmanship. It was BUILT OUT OF A BLACKSMITH SHOP Phat cost the State $800, and R. V. Borden it is said got $500 for tearing it down and building the flume of it. It was put together with end joints and a cleat nailed across to hold the pieces together. There is from a quarter to three-quarters of an inch between every two boards, and the bottom is made up most of the way of boards nailed across with half-inch cracks between them. How anyone ever managed to get a drop of water through such a trap is a mystery. A lot of sand and gravel, in the bottom looks as if it had been shoveled in to help stop the holes. Winfrey says that all he wants is for the State to do as it agreed, and they doubtless will take the water out where the deed says they shall instead of rebuilding the flume. The sticking point is that Sam Brown wants a big price for the right of way for the ditch across a lit-tle of his land.

Jolly Britons.

Four lively Englishmen occupied section of a car in the emigrant train this morning, and were as happy as young doctors over a stolen cadaver. They were evidently gentlemen of means, having servants to attend them and minister to their wants, which, judging from the variety of jugs and bottles on hand were not few. They informed a GAZETTE reporter that they traveled in this manner Lecause they could see more of the country than if shot over the road in a lightning express. "Don't want to go as if a blarsted constable was after a fellow, you know," said one. "And then, you see a fellow can lie in his bunk and smoke his pipe, and be at home." It is often said that if one has plenty of time to spare, he can have more comfort on the emigrant train than on the swift express

It seems to be the height of his ambition to wade in gore. Since he had the battle with the a gang of heath-ens his desire to take the right of the line and make his squad "dress up" is very noticeable. The only objection the GAZETTE has to Stoddard is the jealousy he shows when the name of
